Defects

The Company may repair the product on site free of charge, provide chargeable advance replacements then issue a credit note for the net invoice value of the product with defects that can be verifiably shown to be due to a manufacturer fault, repair or deliver replacement product free of charge. The course of action taken will be at the Company's sole discretion.

The warranty only applies to products used within the allowed specifications and only if the products have been installed and operated in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions that are supplied with the product, or available on request -

The warranty is subject to the following provisions:

- Warranty only applies to the Company's branded product and specifically excludes any traded products that the Company has purchased to support a purchaser's project solution.
- Warranty only applies to products exceeding the standard failure rate of 0.2% per 1,000 operating hours.
- Products have not exceeded a maximum of 5000 hours usage per year and limits of temperature and voltage values as described in the installation instructions supplied with the product should not be exceeded.
- Any claim must be notified to the Company in writing within seven working days from discovery of a defect and the purchaser makes no further use of the goods.
- Batteries are excluded from these warranty terms and have a 1 year warranty provided they have been charged for 24 hours prior to any emergency lighting tests.
- The Company reserves the right to decide upon the eligibility of a warranty claim and this may require the products to be returned to the Company for analysis (with a copy of the original invoice enclosed).
- In the event that no defect is found with the product the Company may choose to charge the purchaser for any costs associated with investigating the claim.
